Winnipeg Firms Under Criticism for Not Using Western Steam Coal

Sell Their Products to Alberta Mining Districts Yet Buy Coal From United States

Boards of Trade in Calgary, Edmonton, Lethbridge, Drumheller, Coleman, Blairmore and Fernie have received from representatives of coal mines of Alberta, resident in Winnipeg, a memorandum stating that as a result of the freight rate subvention, there has been an approximate gain of 200,000 tons in Winnipeg. But there are certain large firms, it is pointed out, who sell a large share of their products in Alberta, yet refuse to use western Canada coal and purchase supplies from the United States, and the representatives of coal companies in their memorandum state: "In spite of all we can do these industrial firms seem to take it for granted that they cannot get service from Canadian coals, and though most of the undersigned have interviewed them on various occasions, we consider their attitude is unreasonable and unfair, especially as their own products are widely marketed in the coal mining districts of Western Canada."

Three large firms are particularly mentioned in the memorandum as consistently refusing to use Western steam coal, the fact that other industrial plants similarly equipped are using western coal, to the number of at least fifty, with satisfaction to themselves.

"An anonymous letter is usually a thing of shame."

Criticisms of Life Insurance Companies Fully Dealt With

Public Advised to Pay No Attention to Criticisms of Unimportant Financial Paper.

An attack on prominent life insurance companies is fully dealt with in "Canadian Insurance," of Toronto, in its editorial column, under date of Jan. 5th, 1932.

In view of the fact that many enquiries have been received by policy holders, The Journal publishes the following editorial article in order to show that the attacks are unfounded and without proof:

A small unimportant financial paper has again resounded, with another violent attack on the Sun Life, plus an equally misleading criticism of the North American Life. Several of our readers have written, asking if these attacks are justified. Here is a letter for example from the district manager of one of the great Canadian life companies, who enquires concerning "The bona fides of this publication."

"A copy of this paper recently came into my hands," he says, "and while it states that it was established in 1875, the reading matter would indicate that it is very widely distributed, a great deal of destructive information will be spread about, and it seems that this information is particularly directed against the institution of life insurance. If, on the other hand, the publishers of this Journal are reliable and trustworthy, it would indicate that some attention must be paid to the accusations made. Any information you can give me as to the standing and reliability of the concern, will be appreciated."

While this Journal is an old established paper and twenty years ago seemed destined to become an influential one, the latest issue of January, 1932, is without a single advertisement. So far as we can ascertain its main purpose in late years seems to be to attack the Sun Life for some inexplicable reason. These attacks are usually violent phrasings, and "nothings" and have no basis in fact as any experienced insurance official could gather for himself by comparing its statements with those of the Dominion Government Blue Books. For example, the main article in the issue of January, 1932, is headed "Swindling continues. Policyholders in the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada and the North American Life Assurance Company have been robbed of $2,755,000 cash during the last few months."

This sounds alarming. It is a terrible accusation. But it is an accusation without proof. The colossal impertinence of the heading is shown when the article calmly proceeds to state that the "Swindling of $2,755,000" consists of $1,500,000 dividend paid to the Sun Life stockholders and $1,255,000 paid to the stockholders of the North American Life as the purchase price of their stock in order that the company may, in future, be conducted upon the mutual principle in both Companies the payments were legitimate, and reasonable and authorized by the Companies' Charters and by the Dominion Insurance Act. In both cases the stockholders were all trustees as they accepted less than the Dominion Insurance Act permitted. The Sun Life stockholders for example receive only 5 per cent of the profits of the participating section of the company's business, whereas the Dominion Insurance Act empowers them to take double the proportion. Perhaps $1,000,000 seems a big sum for dividends. But then the Sun Life is a big company. The extraordinary capacity of its management has made it the 10th largest life insurance company in the world with an annual income of $200,000,000, an assets which must now be nearly $600,000,000. The profits taken by the stockholders are small for a company of such enormous size.

In the case of the North American Life the whole of the $1,255,000 used to purchase the stockholders' interest belonged to the stockholders themselves. The mutualization of the company did not cost the participating policyholders one cent. Without any cost to them, it placed them in a favorable position in the future as they will receive profits every year which, till the mutualization, belonged to the stockholders. The statement of these altruistic transactions that "Policyholders have been robbed of $2,755,000 during the last few months" is analogous to saying to Mr. Bennett, when he is paying $12,500,000 interest on the recent loan of $250,000,000 raised by the Dominion Government, that he has "swindled the public of $12,500,000."

We will make no attempt to reply to many of the other similar statements made by the publication in question, except to refer to one which says that the unpaid claims of the Sun Life, in their returns to the Government made in March last, were $10,000,000. The article suggests that the company holds up the payment of claims to policyholders although it pays dividends to stockholders promptly. This presumably refers to the company's accounts for the year ending December 31st, 1930. The amount of unpaid claims in these accounts is $2,810,000, not $10,000,000. That sounds a large amount till it is explained that the Sun Life pays out to

W. J. HARRIS GIVEN DISTINGUISHED AWARD

Mr. W. J. Harris recently was awarded a gold medal by London (Eng.) College of Music, for the highest percentage of marks gained at examinations held by this college in June 1931. Only one medal is given for continuations of a solo class in music in which examinations are held so that the award is considered of particular distinction. The number of entrants in these examinations would number several hundreds. The medal bears the coat of arms of London College of Music, and the holder's name is engraved thereon. The examiner was Dr. D. J. Jennings, F.R.C.M., Toronto.

CORBIN AND MINERS EVENLY MATCHED—GAME WAS DRAW

Coleman Miners and Corbin Indians played on Corbin ice, the result being a 1-1 tie score. Coleman scored early in the first period, but the Corbin goal was equalized by a solo rush from John Kapalka. Corbin scored their only goal at the end of the second period, Charlie Joyce, making the final score 1-1.

The game was fast, though a blizzard across the open-air rink at intervals made the play hard to see, creating difficulties for both teams. The referee was Jimmy Joyce, Coleman, and a few penalties were handed out.

Approximately 200 attended the game, several from Coleman being present.

Coleman line-up: DeCecco; Kwasney, Johnson; Kapalka, J. Kapalka, Jenkins, Clifton, McVey, Wild; Corbin: A.N. Oher; McVey, Wilde; Solinsky, Norman, Clifford, C. Joyce, Jungar, Holman.

MINERS DEFEAT CORBIN

Corbin Indians and Coleman Miners battled on heavy ice here on Friday, Jan. 8, in an exhibition game. The Miners winning by a score of 2-0. Had there been good ice there would have been an interesting game between these evenly matched teams, and their supporters are keyed up for return game at the British Columbia mining town on Sunday.

Mahovich opened the scoring for Coleman ten minutes from the face-off. Corbin failing to score during the first period which was without a penalty.

In the second period, there were several scrimmages, the heavy ice preventing fast speed, the puck becoming edged at times in the slush. Reuben Johnson, defence player for the Miners, and Charlie Joyce, one of Corbin's forwards, brother of Jimmy, the star forward of the Canadians, got into a mix-up, and were ruled off for three minutes. No score was obtained by either team. Kwasney of the Miners was off for two one-minute penalties.

In the third the Miners again scored. Kwasney of the Miners and "Spot" Wilde of the Indians both spending a minute in the penalty box. Wilde is an old Coleman player, having eight or nine years ago and has recently appeared with the Corbin team.

The line-up: Corbin: McGruther; McVey, Wilde; Solinsky, Norman, Clifford, C. Joyce, Jungar, Holman.

Coleman Miners: Kanik; Kwasney, Johnson; J. Kapalka, S. Kapalka, Kubica, Mahovich, Jenkins, Trotz and Moroney.

Referee: Clarence Huffman.

Three houses were destroyed by fire, East Coleman on Tuesday night, Jan. 12, these losing their homes being Harry Rawlick and wife and three children, three or four bachelors living in a house owned by Mick Anderson, and Harry Scaba, a bachelor. The temperature was about 20 below zero at the time, and very little could be done to stop the fire, as there is no water supply in that quarter except from the river.

Miss Lottie Nicholas and her mother, Mrs. Chas. Nicholas, are spending a month's holiday with friends in St. Paul, Minn.

24 Rinks Competing in Crows Nest Pass Bonspiel—Cranbrook to Lethbridge Represented

Crows Nest annual bonspiel got away to an enthusiastic start on Monday at 9 a. m., when 24 rinks were entered. The weather was mild, and during the day the temperature rose, making the ice heavy for the later games. Monday saw the play in the 32's and 16's of the following competitions: Grand Challenge, Trites-Wood, International Coal & Coke, Lethbridge Brewery and West Canadian Collieries. The handsome prizes accompanying the trophies are displayed in Pattinson's store windows.

D'Appollonia and Sam Moores have reached the fours in the Grand Challenge, Kerr of Bellevue vs. Stewart of Cranbrook have to play off in the eights, also Walker of Pincher vs. Congdon of Blairmore. In Trites-Wood competition, McPhee, Cranbrook; Cameron, Cranbrook, and McLeod, Coleman, have reached the fours, leaving Kerr of Bellevue vs. Kastner of Fernie to play off from the eights. In Lethbridge Brewery competition McPhee, Cranbrook, and Allison of Pincher have reached the fours, while Kastner vs. Cameron and Herchmer, Fernie, vs. Moores still have games in the eights to play off.

International Coal competition sees McLeod and Moores, both Coleman rinks, in the fours, with Stewart vs. Cameron and G. Fisher, Michel, vs. Kastner to complete playing in the eights to decide who will enter the fours. In the West Canadian competition none have reached the fours.

The annual banquet and election of officers of the C.N. P. Curling Ass'n. was held Wed. night at the Grand Union hotel, of which a further report will be made.

On Monday the only 13-and game was between Fisher of Bellevue and Allan of Coleman, Fisher winning by a score of 13-12.

Walker's rink of Pincher Creek met their rivals of Wednesday, when J. McLeod's Coleman rink won in the Trites-Wood competition by 14-7, after overcoming their opponents by a margin in the early stages of the game.

If there is only one good feature of a bonspiel (and there are many it is neighborhood and good fellowship. It is a game which is indeed an asset not only to those who play it, but for the good spirit and example it engenders among others.

Harold Reid was a very efficient clerk of the bonspiel. He kept the draws lined up so that instant information could be obtained, and he helped the newspapers with his ready information. Thanks, Harold!

Two printers, a photographer and a newspaper man should develop some dynamic shots. Welcome, Lethbridge, to Coleman!

Disarmament,—Or War?

In the month of February, 1932, there will be convened a great conference of all nations to deliberate upon the problem of how to bring about world disarmament. It will be one of the most representative conferences ever held, while its decisions will be of the most momentous character, fraught with tremendous good or ill for all people.

A cynic may be inclined to inquire as to the necessity for a disarmament conference in view of the fact that in 1914-1918 a great war was fought with the declared object of ending all further war. The nations which avowed this to be their object won that war. Having won, why the continued necessity for huge armaments; why the necessity for a solemn convocation of the nations to endeavour to bring about disarmament?

The truth is: War will never be ended by war. The Great War 1914-1918 was not the first one to be fought to prevent future war. We read in the works of Mr. James Branch Cabell, an erudite student of the history and customs of the South of France, of how the Duc de Puyssange in the year 1697 addressed his ten-year-old son in these words:

"Now that we have almost reached the eighteenth century, and all the nations have signed that treaty of Ryswick to prevent there ever being any more wars, and people are riding about peaceably in sedan chairs, and are living in America," etc., etc.

Yet how many wars have been fought since 1697 although even then there was a treaty signed by "all" nations to prevent war?

Following the Great War 1914-1918, the nations set up a League of Nations having as its main purpose the prevention of war. Notwithstanding that two of the greatest nations in the world refused to become members of the League, it has accomplished much, but not enough. Then followed the treaty of Locarno, the Washington conference which achieved a measure of limitation of naval armaments, and finally the Kellogg Peace Pact, signed by practically every nation, declaring war an outlaw and solemnly pledging themselves, each to the others, never to resort to war as an instrument of national policy against any other nation.

And yet, the nations continue to be armed camps. The so-called peace-time armies of today outnumber those maintained prior to 1914. War instruments and machines of destruction not only possess the land and sail the seas, but they drive under the seas and fly over the land. In a machine-age, armies, navies and air armadas have become highly mechanized, holding in leash powers of destruction and horrors of suffering previously unsurpassed in man's imagination.

At a time when millions of men are out of productive employment, when want and suffering stalk through hundreds of thousands of homes, when practically every nation is plunging deeper and deeper into debt, billions of dollars are being spent annually to increase and strengthen these huge war machines. Nor is it the semi-civilized, the least intelligent, the non-Christian nations which are the leaders in these insane and criminal acts, thus forcing civilized and Christian people to prepare to defend themselves. No, it is the nations which boast of their higher civilization and call themselves Christians who are setting the pace in preparing for another war.

Soviet Russia, which claims it is setting an example to the whole world in the development of a new order, a better way in which mankind should live, is one of the worst offenders, with its government compelling the people to learn all the arts of war hand in hand with the arts of peace. The United States, far removed and immune from the century old suspicions, jealousies and hatreds of Europe, and safe from attack, lends the van in demanding a huge navy and in the maintenance of a large standing army. France remains armed to the teeth, with Italy a close second. Great Britain has gone farther than any nation in reducing armaments and is prepared to go much farther, prepared to go the limit in fact, if other countries will do likewise.

"The hope of the world lies in the success of the forthcoming disarmament conference. War will not end war; rather each war but precipitates another. Disarmament alone will prevent war; it is the sole preventive measure, and in this case prevention alone will provide the cure. Give a boy a rifle and he will not be happy or content until he uses it. Give a nation a huge army, a powerful navy, airships and submarines, and as sure as night follows the day, it will, sooner or later, make use of them.

The hopes, the prayers, every ounce of influence possessed by each and every individual should be directed to making the forthcoming conference a success, wholly and completely so. Then, indeed, will a new day dawn for all nations and peoples.

To Engage in Research Work

Announcement was made at the university that Dr. Andreev had sailed from Bremen, Germany, and would arrive shortly. Dr. Andreev was selected to assist in the work at McGill. It was explained, because he was an assistant for several years of the world famous Russian physiologist, Pavlov, whose work on conditioned reflexes is regarded as being extremely important in the study of deafness.

Canadian Grown Bulbs

Considerable Quantities Now Being Exported From British Columbia
For many years Holland has been practically the sole source of supply for Canada of flowering bulbs, such as tulips, hyacinths, daffodils and many other varieties that bloom in the spring. The monopoly of this business enjoyed so long by Holland is already being affected by Canadian-grown bulbs. In recent years the bulb industry has developed substantially on Vancouver Island and in the Fraser Valley, British Columbia; so much so that it has now grown to such a point that considerable quantities are being exported.

A recent statistical survey placed the bulb acreage and production for the year in the two districts mentioned as follows: narcissi, 84 acres and 9,889,000 bulbs; early tulips, seven acres and 628,500 bulbs; Darwin tulips, 22 acres and 1,924,350 bulbs; gladioli, 58 acres and 5,890,000 bulbs; iris, eight acres and 800,000 bulbs; other bulbs, including lilies, dahlias, crocuses, 15 acres and about 500,000 bulbs. The bulbs grown in British Columbia are first class in size and quality and the equal of the best imported.

3 MONTHS OFF WITH NEURITIS

"I suffered awful pain for two years with Neuritis and Sciatica, and was off work for three months' time. After trying everything I could think of without getting any benefit at all, I tried a bottle of Kruschen Salts. After my second bottle, I was back to work again, and I am very glad to tell you I am still working, and I am quite free from any pain whatever."

The pains of Neuritis and Sciatica are a symptom of deeper trouble—the same trouble that causes rheumatism, gout and lumbago. They are a sign of an impure blood-stream. They show that poisons have crept into the blood. Kruschen is a combination of six natural salts, which cleanse internal cleanliness and keep the blood-stream pure. New and refreshed blood is sent coursing to every fibre of your being. Neuritis, Sciatica and kindred ills all pass you by. Depression and lassitude vanish like mist before the sun.

The Modern Newspaper

Service That It Not Surpassed By Any Other Agency

When people read their newspapers, purchased for a few cents, they seldom stop to think of the enormous expenditures necessary for equipment and other services, in order to present them with the latest, and most trustworthy dispatches.

The intricate system of gathering news covers the entire world, and no expense is spared in keeping the public informed. Then, when it is conveyed to the individual newspaper office it requires heavy expenditures for the latest mechanical devices so that it may be quickly published and distributed to the readers.

Truly, the modern newspaper service is not surpassed by any other agency in enterprise, accuracy and dispatch.—Brantford Examiner.

Guarding Marriage Rites

Increasing Laxity On Subject Of Marriage Is Noted

The Archbishop of Canterbury, commenting on what he described as the "increasing laxity on the subject of marriage" in the Church of England, has enjoined the clergy to exercise care in authorizing marriage ceremonies and outlined a series of questions to be answered by couples before banns are published.

Clergymen, he said, should solemnize no marriage for "any person who had previously been married and divorced, if the former husband or wife is still alive." Neither, he said, should they marry any one who has not been baptized.

Queer Fish

An exploring expedition came across some queer fish in Siam which can climb steep canal banks by means of their tails and fins. They can travel on land as fast as a man walking slowly.

Practical Stock Raising

Short Course Farm School May Be Established

Possibility of a new type of short course farm school in practical stock raising, conducted in conjunction with the Dominion experimental farms, was forecast by Hon. Robert Weir, Federal Minister of Agriculture.

While discussing the work being done now by the Federal Government under the bull loaning policy, Mr. Weir stated that he had in mind the establishment of short course schools on the experimental farms at such time as funds for such work might be available.

Such a course, he said, would give an opportunity to farm boys to go to one of the farms during the winter months, where he could get good practical training in stock breeding, where he could learn the value of good foundation stock.

Must Face Hard Facts Regarding Reparations Says Ramsay Macdonald

London, England.—Prime Minister Ramsay Macdonald said Sunday night, Jan. 10, Chancellor Heinrich Brüning's declaration of Germany's inability to pay reparations had made a Lausanne conference on the subject more necessary.

He was sure, he added, that the governments represented there would "face the hard facts."

His statement was interrupted by Sir Walter Layton, eminent British economist, as implying that the Prime Minister realized the necessity for "far-reaching" adjustments in the Young Plan.

At the same time, Rt. Hon. George Lansbury, leader of the British Labor Opposition, pledged his party's support to the Government in any move it might make to sweep away those reparations and war debts.

"It is impossible to leave things as they are," Mr. Macdonald declared. "The present situation is the result of international agreements, and an international conference is therefore necessary to deal with it."

"I am sure it will be found that all the governments concerned realize that European recovery and appeasement depend upon facing the hard facts."

He said the policy and point of view of the British Government could be announced only at the proper place and time.

"Meanwhile, it may be said that in view of the economic conditions disclosed by the report of the experts and of the internal political problems of Germany," he continued, "it is not unlikely that some such declaration as that of Dr. Brüning would be made at the Lausanne Conference."

"The fact that it already has been made renders that conference more necessary than ever."

Commenting on Mr. Macdonald's statement, political observers pointed out that a great grudge has been disclosed between the official viewpoints of the French and British Governments regarding the necessity of holding the conference.

How these divergent views will be incorporated into a "united front" with France, for which the British are believed to have been striving for weeks, could not be foreseen.

Legislative Sitings

Saskatchewan House To Open On Thursday, February 4

Regina, Sask.—The fourth session of the seventh legislature of Saskatchewan will open on Thursday, February 4, according to official word received from Premier J. T. M. Anderson.

On the same date the legislature of Alberta will open, and also the House of Commons at Ottawa. In view of this popularity of February 4 for opening legislative sittings, it is considered likely that Manitoba's House will also convene on that day, though official word to that effect is as yet lacking.

U. S. Cannot Admit Legality Of Japan's Occupation Of Manchuria

Washington, D.C.—In a broad invocation of United States treaty rights in the Far East, the United States served plain notice it cannot admit the legality of Japan's occupation of Manchuria, nor recognize any resulting regime impairing the open door policy, the nine-power treaty, or the Kellogg pact against war.

No official word forecast what actual steps might follow for the protection of U.S. interests. The terms of all of the international agreements invoked are vague with respect to penalties.

The apparent purpose was to marshal world indignation against any

Storms In Europe

Resultant Floods Are the Cause Of Six Deaths

London, England.—Storms from Portugal to Scandinavia and floods in many parts of Europe caused six deaths, and distress for several ships.

The British steamer Jersey City sent urgent calls for help from a position near the Scilly Islands, saying it was out of control with its machinery broken down. A motor barge sank in the Thames estuary, but the crew of three was saved.

The Greek steamer "Alexandria" grounded two miles off the coast in Dungeness Bay in the English Channel and later was refloated.

A violent southwest delayed departure of the liner "Paris" from La Havre, France, three hours. A fishing boat sank in a fierce gale off the Breton coast, but the crew of two was saved.

The wind had reached a force of 80 miles an hour over some parts of Great Britain Wednesday night, January 6, while the Scilly Islands were lashed by a 93-mile gale. The battleship "Royal Sovereign" and the cruiser "Exeter" went to the assistance of the British freighter "Trevelyan," which had lost a propeller and was drifting in peril off Plymouth.

The tremendous gales were accompanied by rain storms which flooded much of England, Ireland and Wales, and forced suspension of quayside and other activities in many places.

A boat belonging to H.M.S. Whirlwind was swamped at Sheerness and one seaman was lost. The harbor at Lisbon, Portugal, was shrouded in dense fog and several accidents were reported.

The wind in London was so violent that a mail van was blown over on its side in the centre of the city. The weather bureau said the gale was one of several due to strike during the next few days.

From Prague, Czechoslovakia, came reports of floods that submerged many homes and resulted in one death.

Halberstadt, Germany, reported the deaths of three persons in floods in the surrounding territory. Considerable property damage but no loss of life was suffered in the neighborhood of Bar-le-Duc, France, where the Marne and several other rivers were in flood.

War On Bookmakers

Drastic Campaign Against Betting Anticipated In Winnipeg

Winnipeg, Man.—Winnipeg bookmakers are reported in for a hot time in the next few weeks. Following the arrest of two officials of the Provincial Treasury Department charged with embezzlement of more than $100,000 and statements from the accused that they had lost money in race track gambling, provincial authorities are turning their attention to the activities of the bookies.

Police officials decline to discuss the matter, but a drastic campaign against betting is anticipated.

Australia Takes Strong Stand For Trade Within Empire

Canberra, Australia.—Through the medium of "talking pictures," Prime Minister Joseph Lyons declared the new Australian Government stands for the fullest measure of Imperial preferential trade with Great Britain and her sister Dominions. The Government would earnestly strive to make a success of the forthcoming Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa, he added.

Mr. Lyons introduced the members of the new United Party before the cameras. The occasion was the gathering of the cabinet to formally take office.

Consideration of revised tariff schedules will be the first business of the new Australian Parliament when it assembles on February 17, it was announced after the first meeting of the new cabinet under the Prime Minister this afternoon.

The first act of the United Party cabinet was to re-appoint Claude Reading to the board of directors of the Commonwealth Bank.

Mr. Graham, who had represented the Central Division of Edinburgh, Scotland, in the House of Commons from 1918 until the last election, when he was defeated by J. C. M. Guy, National-Conservative candidate, was regarded by members of all political parties in Great Britain as one of the outstanding figures in the last House, and a brilliant future had been predicted for him.

Shot Misses Constable's Heart By Narrow Margin

Aklavik, N.W.T.—The shot fired at Constable A. W. King, of the R.C.M.P., by a crazed trapper at a lonely cabin on the old Yukon trail, missed the constable's heart by a scant inch, a medical examination of King has revealed. The injured man, cared for by Dr. J. A. Urquhart in hospital, is recovering.

Meanwhile a patrol headed by Inspector Eames is pressing forward 80 miles to reach the Yukon trail cabin to arrest Albert Johnson, who is believed to be the demented man seen tampering with Indian trap lines and who is blamed for the shooting of the constable.

The wounded officer was placed on a sleigh by his companion, Constable R. G. McDowell, and brought to Aklavik.

Give Wrong Impression

Newspaper Criticized On Attitude Towards Schools

Saskatoon, Sask.—Daily and weekly newspapers give the child the wrong "slant" on school life, according to Dr. S. R. Laycock, of Saskatchewan University. Newspapers comment in September on the fact that the child must give up his freedom on returning to the school which the papers give the atmosphere of a "prison" and similarly in June, they are "let out" from their mythical school prison. Dr. Laycock, lecturing to a class on school management, declared that newspapers should refrain from such adverse comment.

Japan, Acting In Self-Defense, Cannot Change Military Policy

Japs Capture Port

Hulutao Is Taken By Japanese Without Resistance

Mukden, Manchuria.—The port of Hulutao, south of Changchun on the Gulf of Liatoung, which Governor Chang Hsueh-Liang planned to turn into a great outlet for the products of Manchuria, was captured without resistance by the Japanese.

Japanese army headquarters explained the occupation was part of the campaign to suppress banditry in South Manchuria and that the larger question of the port's future must depend on negotiations in which the Mukden Government of Tsang Shih-Yi probably will be considered here for the equity of Chang Hsueh-Liang who was deposed as governor of Manchuria by Japanese troops.

Already, however, influential Japanese are urging that Hulutao be included in the Japanese-controlled communications system for all Manchuria.

Churchill Delivers Address

Praises Premier Bennett As a Man Of Vision

Nassau, Bahamas.—In his first public appearance since his recent accident in New York, Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, M.P., former Chancellor of the Exchequer, was guest at dinner here of the executive council, the legislative council and the House of Assembly of the Bahamas. His excellency, the administrator, Hon. Charles Dundas, presided. Mr. Churchill showed facial evidence of his injury but appeared in vigorous health.

"The Bahamas should be the garden of Canada," Mr. Churchill stated in a brief address in which he recommended the closest relations with the Dominion. He praised Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Prime Minister of Canada, as "a man of vision." The Empire will not fall to pieces. It is sound at heart and the workers of Britain have set themselves to keep it safe as of old," Mr. Churchill said.

Aviator Penalized

American Airman Fined For Illegal Entry Into Canada

Abbotsford, B.C.—Alvin E. Paulson, Seattle, Wash., aviator, arrested December 22, when his plane crashed while taking off at Sumas, was fined $500 or three months imprisonment for illegal entry into Canada and failing to report to the proper authorities. He was returned to custody pending payment of the fine.

Two white men and three Chinese, one of whom was slightly injured when the plane crashed, were arrested with Paulson but subsequently were released when the white men were found to have no connection with the case and the Chinese had proved legal entrance to Canada. Paulson's fine passenger plane has been confiscated by the customs department.

Invitation To Liberals To Enter Cabinet In Manitoba Government

Winnipeg, Man.—Premier John Bracken has promised cabinet representation to the Liberal Party after the next session of the legislature, in a letter to Dr. Murdoch MacKay, Provincial Liberal Leader. The letter was made public.

The premier said he was willing to give the Liberals more than one cabinet position, but did not indicate how many. At the same time he made it clear he was still holding the door wide open for a union government, representing all political groups in the House.

"While not impossible to do so," the letter states, "it is obviously difficult to make any reorganization of the government before the coming session."

"After the close of the session, however, if the Conservative and Labor parties have not accepted the invitation I extended to them, the strongest possible cabinet will be chosen and representation in it will be given to the Liberals of the province, additional to that proposed by me last September."

Tokyo, Japan.—Representations by the United States over the occupation of Manchuria failed Friday, Jan. 8, to swerve Japan in her attitude toward China.

Claiming equal interest, Premier Inakura's month old cabinet informed its resignation as the aftermath of an attempt to assassinate Emperor Hirohito.

An official spokesman, replying informally to United States Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson's note involving the nine-power treaty, the Pact of Paris and the open-door policy, pledged that United States' commercial rights in Manchuria would not be harmed but said Japan cannot change her military policy.

Japan recognized China's sovereignty over Manchuria, he said, but maintains the Manchurian Government has never exercised authority over Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang's regime. Japan's activities in Manchuria have not infringed existing instruments of peace, he said, because Japan is acting in self-defense, "which is the fundamental right of a nation to its existence, recognized both by the nine-power pact and the Kellogg pact."

Briand To Resign

Asks Premier Laval To Appoint a New Foreign Secretary

Paris, France.—Sick and weary, Aristide Briand, Friday, Jan. 8, asked Premier Laval to name a new foreign minister.

The grizzled veteran of the Great War reconstruction period informed the Premier he considered it his duty, because of bad health, to place the portfolio he has held for seven years, in M. Laval's hands.

The news of M. Briand's decision came first in a short semi-official note, later confirmed by the foreign office.

"It is assured," the note said, "that M. Briand informed the Premier during the day that because of the state of his health, which imposes certain precautions, he thought it his duty to put the portfolio of the Minister of Foreign Affairs at the Premier's disposal, to the end that another can be named in his place."

World Peace Menace

Armaments and Reparations Are Twin Difficulties

Vancouver, B.C.—The twin difficulties besetting world peace today came into being with the signing of the League of Nations covenant in 1918, and are "armaments" and "reparations," in the opinion of Rt. Rev. L. Ralph Sherman, D.D., Bishop of Calgary, expressed in an address to members of the Women's Canadian Club here.

The result of the excessive reparations demanded of Germany—financial breakdown—was seen by thinking economists. The League was not popular in 1918 when the Treaty of Versailles was signed.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

The need of a community hall is apparent to many. It is impossible in small halls used for lodge meetings to accommodate an audience of more than 150 people. Frequently throughout the year accommodation is needed for much larger gatherings, and organizations are cramped in their activities and expenses of amateur shows are barely covered because they show before audiences too small in numbers to leave a profit for the promoters. A dance in these halls is a competitive jostling feat with barely room to more than bob up and down. It has been proposed through The Journal on previous occasions that a community effort should be made towards purchasing the Miners Opera House, which will seat about 650 people, and has ample facilities for club purposes to meet the needs of local organizations. One gentleman expressed his willingness to contribute a liberal sum towards this objective, and it is well worthy of consideration by public spirited citizens who desire to see an adequate meeting place provided for the town.

An inconvenience often complained of is the closing of stores for an hour at noon. Instead of providing shopping facilities, merchants curtail them by this practice which may be permissible in a "back town" where the stockkeeper may play checkers on top of a molasses barrel. But in the face of the keenest competitive mail order business, and the ease with which people may write orders from catalogues, it is vitally necessary that every possible inducement be given the mail-order customer to trade at home.

The average hours in which stores were open in Coleman during 1931 number 40% per week, so that neither the employers or the helpers can complain of long hours. It is in the interests of general business that industry is drawn to this custom which undoubtedly retards instead of develops retail business.

Every business place or store should have an attractive sign engaged in the class of business it is engaged in. Many stores on our main street have no outward indication of the nature of their business, and the casual passer-by does not know the peanut vendor from the liquor store. It is even the business section by signs which will proclaim to the world that you are proud of your business. Let people know who you are and what you represent. A good sign is equal to an invitation to enter. The more people that enter, the more sales contacts you develop.

Winston Churchill may write a story of being knocked down by an automobile, and receive a handsome profit in newspaper royalties. But "ye editor" of the Coleman Journal may take a flop, and just get the "thorge-laugh." Coming down the hill (or toboggan slide) from Sixth street on Monday morning, with every intention of commencing the week imbued with energy and enthusiasm, the icy patch at the bottom proved as treacherous as a dog taking a sudden bite at your heels. We fell so quickly that it was only by receiving a sharp crack on the head and seeing a few stars and hearing what we thought were the birds saying "twit-twit" that we very quickly realized this was no joke, but a real knockout such as sent Dempsey over the ropes when Firpo doubled him up in the first round. We felt the shock from stem to gudgeon, and for a moment or two calmly wondered why this act of rebellion should have descended to commence this week. Then we reflected that we had been to church the previous evening, and there was to be an annual meeting the following evening. But the protection of the Lord evidently availed nothing against that treacherous ice. With these thoughts flashed through the mind much more quickly than it takes to tell, similar to the fact that when a man thinks his last moment has come in a sudden crisis, the panorama of a lifetime flashes through his mind, a friendly pair of hands assisted us to the odds and ends we had been carrying, straightened out a badly denied hat, searched around for the pipe which had catapulted some few feet away, and resumed the interrupted walk to the office, ruminating on the fact that no matter how good your intentions may be to start the day right, there is a mightier force which has some say in your plans for the day.

To do everything in daily life by a rule of monotonous regularity; to compute dealings with our fellow men on a purely mechanical basis of dollars and cents only; to turn a deaf ear to worthy appeals to benefit those who urgently need kindly help—this is not life; it is merely existence! "Love thy neighbor as thyself," Henry Van Dyke, in his admirable "Camp Fires and Sign Posts," says:

"If the people of a community who are thoroughly good in themselves would also be good for others, they would have the power to lift up the whole tone of life and would be ten times more happy and useful. If a man concentrates his attention and affection on himself, he is not doing the best, but the worst for himself. He is going to be a smooth, self-satisfied pig, or a sour old curmudgeon. Even if he has some kind of thought; it will not do him much good. It is sure to be as narrow and hollow as an empty razor shell on the beach."

No business 'house in any town should allow a newspaper published in his town to go without his name and business being mentioned somewhere in its columns. The man who does not advertise his business does an injustice to himself and the town. The life of a town depends upon the live, wide-awake and liberal advertising business man.—Cranbrook Courier.

Criticisms of Life Insurance

The policyholders every year a total of over $52,000,000. Of this sum, $910,000 represents about a month's claims, which is a reasonable and natural condition. It must take, on the average, a month to secure proof of age, medical certificate and proper condition. It must take, in the foreign field and outlying points of the Empire when death claims sometimes take several months to reach the company's offices. Every man in the insurance world knows that the Sun Life has the reputation of being particularly efficient in its service to policyholders.

The only other item we need refer to is another article in the same issue entitled "Sun Life Insurance Company has become insolvent through its speculative investments." The Journal in question makes this wild assumption as the common stocks of the Sun Life, it says, have depreciated by $105,000,000 since December 31st, 1930. The assumption is, of course, nonsense. The Sun Life itself does not know till after December 31st what its exact surplus will be. But it is certain that its statement will not show a deficit, it holds large amounts of Canadian and American securities to cover liabilities in other parts of the world, such as in India, England and South America, where currencies and its liabilities have depreciated, so that it has probably gained enormously. It has ample sources of excess reserves by which it can take care of greater depreciation in its assets than has already taken place. We now refer our readers to an interview with Sir Joseph Burn, the general manager of the Prudential Assurance Company of England (the greatest individual investor in the British Empire), who speaks of the necessity for life insurance companies to invest in common stocks. Actual opinion in England (which is probably the most conservative in the financial world) is along the same lines. If currencies go to pieces, as they did in Germany and France after the war, and as many people today think might happen in most countries in the early future, then mortgages and fixed interest bearing securities will depreciate, and property such as houses, land, business and common stocks—which of course represent the ownership of business—will correspondingly appreciate. A foretaste of this happened in England this last September, when England went off the Gold Standard. The first event in the stock market was the immediate decline in Bonds and all fixed interest-bearing assets, and a 20 per cent appreciation within two days, in the values of common stocks of the leading industrial business. If currencies should go to pieces, therefore, the Sun Life will automatically benefit greatly because it has a great proportion of its assets invested in common stocks of the best businesses. It will be well for everyone to reflect upon this aspect of insurance finance. It may seem a wild idea at first. It probably seemed equally absurd to the people of Germany and France before their currencies depreciated in 1921. The chairman of an investment company in London suggested that this might happen in the near future. Mr. Ramsay MacDonald has stated definitely that the present British Government has no intention of returning to the Gold Standard. It looks to us therefore, as if the Sun Life is in a particularly favorable position with its common stocks. We believe that the company's interest in the Sun Life 1931 will compare favorably with those of other life insurance companies. The reason is that its common stocks are those of the very best and most stable businesses in America and the nations of North America must disintegrate before the industries represented by the Sun Life common stocks can be destroyed.

We advise our readers to pay no attention to the opinions of the publication we refer to. The Sun Life and the North American Life are two of our very best life insurance companies. They are under the very strong control of Mr. G. D. Finlayson, the superintendent of the Dominion Insurance Department. He has the reputation of being the best informed and most efficient insurance superintendent which this or any other country has had, and he stands for no nonsense in the accounts of any insurance company, as his differences of opinion with some of them in the past have shown. To criticize the affairs of the Sun Life and the North American Life, therefore, is to criticize the Dominion Government itself, because the very transactions of these companies mentioned in the first part of this article were conducted under the scrutiny and with the authorization of the Dominion Insurance Department and of the Dominion Government.

IN MEMORIAM

In Loving Memory of our Dear Mother Mrs. Loré Doe, New Westminster, B.C., who passed away on January 28th, 1931. Your rest is peaceful, mother dear. 'Tis sweet to breathe your name, in life we loved you very dear. In death we do the same. A light has from our household gone. A voice we loved is stilled. A place is vacant at our hearth, Which never can be filled. —Inserted by her daughter, son and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. Antle, Maycroft, Alberta.

Harold Long, editor of the Lethbridge Herald, is attending the bospital and in addition to covering the event is playing on Kirkham's rink.

Town of Coleman Financial Statement

FOR THE YEAR ENDING DECEMBER 31, 1931

Calgary, Alberta, 2nd Jan, 1932.

The Mayor and Councilors,
The Town of Coleman,
Alberta.

Gentlemen—

In accordance with your instructions and the requirements of The Town Act, I have audited the books and records of the Town of Coleman for the year 1931, and beg to report that I have obtained all the information I have required.

For your information, in addition to compiling the printed form issued by the Department of Municipal Affairs for Alberta, I have prepared the attached Statement from the records of the Town.

1. Cash Statement for the year 1931.
2. Revenue Statement for the year 1931.
3. Balance Sheet as at 31st December, 1931.

The Cash Statement records the details of all the cash received and paid out during the year 1931 regardless of what it related to, and this Statement shows that the Town actually paid out $54.48 less than was received during the year.

The Revenue Statement deals with Receipts and Payments that are only applicable to the year 1931, regardless of whether all such receipts actually were received or whether all such expenses were actually paid. This Statement therefore treats the 1931 Town Tax levy as being received in full, and this Revenue Statement shows that the Town operated in 1931 at a surplus of $49,912.44.

You will note that fifteen hundred dollars ($1500.00) was paid on Notes Payable during the year, and all interest on these notes was paid when due, and provision has been made in the Balance Sheet for the interest on these Notes that accrued between annual interest payment date and 31st December, 1931.

You will note that the continued efforts of the Mayor have resulted in further reduction being effected in the cost of the Town of the Street Lights despite the fact that additional lamps have been installed during the year.

May I also point out that for the first time since 1928 the Town was able to meet all its obligations as at 31st December, 1931, without closing the year with an overdraft or loan from the Bank. This accomplishment is due of course to the close co-operation between the Mayor, Councilors, Officials and Taxpayers of the Town. Tax Collections having actually exceeded the figures for 1930.

In accordance with the requirements of the Town Act I have visited the Town of Coleman office five times during the past year, and wish to report that on each occasion I found the work had at all times been kept up to date, and the cash properly deposited with the Canadian Bank of Commerce, and the books in balance.

Subject to the foregoing, I certify that, in my opinion, the attached Balance Sheet is properly drawn up to show a true and correct view of the affairs of the Town of Coleman as at 31st December 1931, according to the best of my information, the explanations given to me and as shown by the books and records of The Town of Coleman.

E. D. BATTRUM,
Auditor

A telephone call from Calcutta to Great Britain costs $39.00 or $13.00 a minute. To Australia it is $54.00 or $18.00 a minute. With a trans-Canada telephone line in operation, calls may be made from your own house. The minimum membership fare round trip from Canada to Great Britain is $145.00, or less than the cost of twelve minutes telephone conversation. But consider the time you save. ## ACID STOMACH

EXCESS acid is the common cause of indigestion. It results in pain and sourness about two hours after eating. The quick corrective is an alkali which neutralizes acid. The best corrective is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia neutralizes instantly many times its volume in acid. Harmless, and tasteless, and yet its action is quick. You will never rely on crude methods, once you learn how quickly this method acts. Be sure to get the genuine.

The ideal dentifrice for clean teeth and healthy gums is Phillips' Dental Magnesia, a superior tooth paste that safeguards against acid-mouth. (Made in Canada.)

CHAPTER X.

Other People's Troubles

Jean woke to find the chill, wintry sunlight thrusting in long fingers through the space between the casements and the edges of the window-blinds. At first the unfamiliar look of a strange bedroom puzzled her, and she lay blinking drowsily at the wavering slits of light, wondering in vague, half-awake fashion where she was. Gradually, however, recollection returned to her, and with it a lively curiosity to view Staple by daylight. She jumped out of bed and, rattling on the blinds, on the rollers, peered out of the window.

To Jean, familiarized from childhood with the piercing clarity of atmosphere, the brilliant colouring and the definiteness of silhouette of southern Europe and of Egypt, there was something inexpressibly restful and appealing in those blurred hues of gray and violet, in the warm red of the Devon earth, with its tender overtones of purple like the bloom on grapes, and the rounded breasts of green-clad hills curving suavely one into the other till they merged into the ultimate, rock-crowned slopes of the brooding moor.

"I'm going to love your England," she told Nick.

They were making their way down to the lake—alone together, since

When TEETHING makes HIM FUSSY

One of the most important things you can do to make a teething baby comfortable is to see that little bowels do their work of carrying off waste matter promptly and regularly. For this nothing is better than Castoria, a pure vegetable preparation specially made for babies and children. Castoria acts so gently you can give it to young infants to relieve colic. Yet it is always effective, for older children, too. Remember, Castoria contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics—it is absolutely harmless. When your baby is teething or a food upset, give a cleansing dose of Castoria. Be sure you get genuine Castoria with the name.

Blaize had curtly refused to join them—and as she spoke, Nick stopped and regarded her considerably.

"I rather imagine England will love you," he replied, adding, with the whimsical impudence which was somehow always permitted Nick Brennan: "If it were not for a prior claim, I'm certain I should have loved you in about five minutes."

"I'm sorry I happened too late," retorted Jean.

"But I can still be a brother to you," he pursued, ignoring her interpolation. "I think—reflectively—I shall like being a brother to you."

"I should expect a brother to fetch and carry," cautioned Jean. "And to make himself generally useful."

"I haven't got the character for my last place about me at the moment, but I'll write it out for you when we get back. Meanwhile, I will perform the mental task of fastening on your skates."

They had reached the lake by now. It was a wide stretch of water several acres in extent, and rimmed about its banks with rush and alder. At the far end Jean could discern a boat-house.

"It must be an ideal place for boating in the summer," she said, looking at the lake appreciatively as together they circled it with long, sweeping strokes, hands interlocked. It was much larger than it had appeared from her bedroom window, when it had been partially screened from her view by rising ground.

"It's all right just for paddling about," answered Nick. "But there's really jolly boating on our river. That's over on the west side of the p-ik"—he pointed in the direction indicated. "It divides Staple from Willow Ferry—the property of our next-door neighbour, so to speak. You'd like the boating here," he added, "though I'm afraid our skating possibilities aren't likely to impress anyone coming straight from Switzerland."

"I'm sure I shall like skating—or anything else here," said Jean warmly. "It is all so beautiful. I suppose Devonshire is really quite the loveliest county in England? My father always declared it was."

"We think so," replied Nick modestly. "Though a Cornishman would probably want to knock me down for saying so! But I love it," he went on. "There's nowhere else I would care to live." His eyes softened, seeming almost to caress the surrounding fields and woods.

Jean nodded.

"I can understand that," she said. "Although I've never been a few hours, I'm beginning to love it, too. I don't know why it is—I can't explain it—but I feel as if I'd come home."

"Oh, you have. The Petersons lived here for generations."

"Do you mean"—Jean stared at him in astonishment—"do you mean that they lived at Combe Eavie?"

"Yes. Didn't you know? They used to own Charnwood—a place very close to here. It was sold after your grandfather's death. Did your father never tell you?"

She shook her head.

"He always avoided speaking of anything in connection with his life over here. I think he hated England. Is there anyone living at Charnwood now?" she asked, after a pause.

"Yes. It has changed hands several times, and now a friend of ours lives there—Lady Latimer."

"Then perhaps I shall be able to go there some day. I should like to see the place where my father's people lived"—eagerly.

Nick laughed.

"You've got the true Devonshire homing instinct," he declared. "Devon folk who've left the county always want to see the place where their people lived." I remember, about a year ago, a Canadian girl and her brother turned up at Staple. They were descendants of a Tormarin had emigrated two or three generations before, and they had come across to England for a visit. Their first trip was to Devonshire; they wanted to see the place where their people had lived. And, by Jove, they knew a lot more about it than we did! They were posted up in every detail, and insisted on a personally conducted tour over the whole place. They went back to Canada rejoicing, loaded with photographs of Staple."

"I think it was rather dear of them to come back like that," she said simply.

They swung round the head of the lake, and, as they turned, Jean caught sight of a woman's figure emerging from the path which ran through the woods. Apparently the new-comer descried the skaters at the same moment, for she stopped and waved her hand in a friendly little gesture of greeting. Nick lifted his cap.

"That is Lady Latimer," he said.

Something in his voice, some indescribable deepening of quality, made Jean look at him quickly. She remembered on one occasion, in a jeweller's shop, noticing a very beautiful opal lying in its case; she had commented on it casually, and the man behind the counter had lifted it so that the light should fall upon it. In an instant the red fire shimmering in its heart had wafted into glowing life, irradiating the whole stone with pulsing colour. It was some such vitalizing change as this that she sensed in the suddenly eager face beside her.

Hastening their pace, she and Nick skated up to the edge of the lake where Lady Latimer awaited them, and as he introduced the two women to each other it seemed as though the eyes of the woman on the bank asked hastily, almost frightenedly: "Will you prove friend or foe?" And Jean's eyes, all soft and luminous with very real woman's interest in the presence of the long signalled back steadily: "Friend!"

"Claire!" said Nick. And Jean thought that no name could have suited her better.

She was the slenderest thing, with about her the patient, delicate grace of a harebell, Ash-blond hair, no fairer than some lights it looked almost rather than gold, framed the charming Greuze face. Only it was not quite a Greuze, Jean reflected. There was too much character in it—a certain gentle firmness, something curiously still and patient in the contour of the curved lips, and a deeper appeal than that of mere wondering youth in the gentian-blue eyes. They were woman's eyes, eyes out of which no weeping could quite wash the wisdom of some past or present sorrow.

"So you are one of the Charnwood Petersons?" said Lady Latimer in her soft, pretty voice. "You won't like me, I'm afraid—smiling—I'm living in your old home."

"Oh, Jean won't quarrel with you over that," put in Nick. "She's got a splendid castle all her own somewhere in the wilds of Europe."

"Yes. Belmets is really my home. I've never even seen Charnwood," smiled Jean. "But I should like to—some day, if you will ask me over."

"Oh, yes, certainly you must come," replied Lady Latimer a little breathlessly. But she seemed unaccountably flustered, as though Jean's suggestion in some way disquieted her.

"But of course, Charnwood—now— isn't a bit like what it must have been when the Petersons had it. I think a place changes with the people who inhabit it, don't you? I mean, their influence impresses itself on it. If they are good and happy people, you can feel it in the atmosphere of the place, and if they are people with bad and wicked thoughts, you feel that. I know I do." And there was no doubt in the mind of either of her hearers that she was referring to the last-named set of influences.

"But I think Charnwood must be lovely, since it's your home now," said Jean sincerely.

"Oh, yes—of course—it is my home now." Lady Latimer looked troubled. "But other people live—have lived there. It's changed hands several times, hasn't it, Nick?"—turning to him for confirmation.

Nick was frowning. He, too, appeared troubled.

"Of course it's changed hands—and heaps of times," he replied gruffly. "But I should think your influence would be enough to counteract that of—of everybody else. Look here, chuck discussing voices, psychic influences, Claire, and come on the ice."

"No, I can't," she replied hastily. "I haven't my skates here."

"That doesn't matter. We've a dozen pairs up at the house. One of them is sure to fit you. I'll go and collect a few."

He wheeled as though to cross the lake on his proposed errand, but Claire Latimer laid her hand quickly on his arm.

"No, no," she said. "I can't skate this morning. I'm on my way home."

"Oh, change your mind!" begged Jean, nodding with friendly amusement. Nick's expression of discontent.

"No, really I can't. Claire's face had whitened and her big eyes sought Nick's in a kind of pathetic appeal. "Adrian is not—very well today. My husband," she added explanatorily to Jean.

The latter was conscious of a sense of shock. She had quite imagined Lady Latimer to be a widow, and had been mentally engaged in weaving the most charming and happy-ever-after of romances since the moment she had seen that wonderful change come over Nick's face. Probably her husband was due to the manner of his first introduction of Claire's name. "A friend of ours lives there"—Lady Latimer, without reference to any husband lurking in the background.

She observed that Nick made no further effort to persuade Claire to remain, and after exchanging a few common remarks the latter continued her way back to Charnwood.

It was so nearly lunch time that it did not seem worth while resuming their skating. Besides, with Claire Latimer's refusal to join them, the occupation seemed to have lost its charm, and when Jean suggested a return to the house Nick assented readily.

"She is very sweet—your Lady Latimer," remarked Jean, as they walked back over the frostily crisp turf. "But she looks rather sad. And she isn't the kind of person one associates with sadness. There's something so young and fresh about her; she makes one think of spring flowers."

Nick's face kindled.

"Yes, she's like that, isn't she?" he answered eagerly. "Like a pale golden narcissus."

They walked on in silence for a few minutes, the thoughts of each of them dwelling on the woman who had just left them. Then Jean said softly: "So that's the 'prior claim'?"

"Yes," he acknowledged simply. "You never mentioned that she had a husband concealed somewhere. I quite thought she was a widow till she suddenly mentioned him."

"I never think of him as her husband—shortly. 'You can't make light and darkness.'"

"I suppose she's an invalid?" ventured Jean.

Nick's face darkened.

"He's a drug fiend," he said in a low, hard voice.

"Oh!"

After that one breathless exclamation of horror Jean remained silent. The swift picture conjured up before her eyes by Nick's terse speech was unspokenly revolting.

Years ago she had heard her father describing the effect of the drug habit upon a friend of his own who had yielded to it. He had been telling her mother about it, characteristically oblivious of the presence of a child of eleven in the room at the time, and some of Glyn Peterson's poignant, illuminating phrases punctuated by little, stricken murems of pity from Jacqueline, had impressed a painfully accurate picture on the plastic mind of childhood. Ever since then, drug-mania had represented to Jean the uttermost abyss.

And now, the vision of that slender, gracious woman, Nick's "pale golden narcissus," tied for life to a man who must ultimately become that which Glyn Peterson's friend had become, filled her with compassionate dismay.

It was easy enough, now, to comprehend Claire Latimer's curious lack of warmth when Jean expressed the hope that she might go over to Charnwood some day. It sprang from the nervous shrinking of a woman at the prospect of being driven to unveil before fresh eyes the secret misery and degradation of her life.

Jean was still silent as she and Nick re-entered the hall at Staple. It was empty, and as, by common consent, they instinctively drew towards the fire Nick pulled forward one of the big easy-chairs for her. Then he stood gloomily staring down into the leaping flames, much as Tormarin had stood the previous evening. Intuitively she knew that he wanted to give her his confidence.

Strong Position Maintained by The Royal Bank of Canada

Total Assets over 825 millions—Liquid Assets Stand at $348,630,000—Profits of $5,448,327 amply cover dividends and usual appropriations.

The maintenance of its usual strong position and ready ability to meet the rapidly changing trade conditions are among the outstanding features of the annual report of The Royal Bank of Canada.

The statement, which is for the fiscal year to November 30th, is now going forward to shareholders. It will be immediately accepted as further striking proof of the successful manner in which Canadian banks are dealing with the problems brought about by depressed business conditions.

The general statement of assets and liabilities shows total assets in excess of $825,000,000, a reduction of only about 7% as compared with the amount reported at the end of the previous year. In the light of lower commodity prices and general slackening of activity, the maintenance of total assets at such a high position, as usual, is a strong one.

Liquid assets totalling $348,630,551, or over 48% of liabilities to the public. The principal accounts included among them are cash items of $130,288,891; Dominion and Provincial Government securities of $85,473,068 and Canadian Municipal and British foreign and colonial public securities of $24,941,816. Call loans total $75,293,380 and naturally represent a substantial reduction for the year, those of Canada being down $18,847,850, or 33%.

and those abroad over $7,000,000. The generally lessened business activity is further reflected in commercial loans, which are $419,345,943, as compared with $444,815,877 a year ago. Letters of Credit also show a reduction—nearly $10,000,000—obviously due to curtailed international trade.

Total deposits stand at $647,303,075 as against $695,589,060 at the end of the 1930 year. The decline, as is well known, has been principally in deposits elsewhere than in Canada, those in the Dominion showing only $7,160,200, and now amount to $479,185,064, as against $486,325,264.

Satisfactory Profits
The many shareholders of the Bank will be particularly interested in the Profit and Loss account and the showing made should be regarded as very satisfactory. Profits for the year amounted to $5,448,327, and these added to the amount brought forward from the preceding year brought the total available for distribution up to $9,555,105. Payment of the usual 12% dividend absorbed $4,200,000; a contribution of $200,000 was made to Officers' Pension Fund; the usual amount of $400,000 was appropriated for Bank premiums and $600,000 was set aside for Dominion Government taxes. After meeting all these charges the substantial amount of $4,155,105 was carried forward to credit of Profit and Loss into the next fiscal year.

"Tell me about it, Nick," she said quietly.

"May I?" The words jerked out like a sigh of relief.

"He dropped into a chair beside her. "There isn't much to tell you. Only, I'd like you to know—to be a pal to her, if you can, Jean." He paused, then went on quickly: "They married her to him when she was hardly more than a child—barely seventeen. She's only nineteen now. Sir Adrian is practically a millionaire, and Claire's father and mother were in low water—trying to cut a dash in society on nothing a year. So—they sold Claire. Sir Adrian paid their debts and agreed to make them a handsome allowance. And they let her go to him, knowing, then, that he had already begun to take drugs."

"How could they?" burst from Jean in a strangled whisper.

Nick nodded. His eyes, meeting hers, had lost their gay good humour and were dull and lack-lustre.

"Yes, you'd wonder how, wouldn't you?" he said. His voice raised a little. "Still—they did it. Then, later, on the Latimers came to Charnwood, and Claire and I met. It didn't take long to love her—you can understand that, can't you?"

"Oh, Nick—yes! She is so altogether lovable."

"But understand this, too,"—and the sudden sternness that gripped his speech reminded her sharply of his brother—"we recognize that that is all there can ever be between us. Just the knowledge that we love each other. I think even that helps to make her life—more bearable."

"Thank you for telling me, Nick," she said. "Perhaps some day you'll be happy—together. You and Claire. It sounds a horrible thing to say—to count on—I know, but a man who takes drugs—"

Nick interrupted her with a short laugh.

"You needn't count on Latimer's smiling out, if that's what you mean. He is an immensely strong man—like a piece of steel wire. It will take years for any drug to kill him. I sometimes think—bitterly—"that it will kill Claire first."

"Big Deal" Man's Only Assets Were Brief Case and 2 Shirts —Spent Pleasant Month Here

After Enjoying Month of Comfort and Dreams of Big Business, Goes Back to Jail.

All pretences of big business wofully absent, and without casting a glance of friendly recognition to those with whom he associated during his month's stay as a guest at the Grand Union Hotel, William Rogers, aged about 40 years, of no fixed abode, presented a sorry figure as he pleaded guilty before Magistrate Gresham in the court house at Blairmore on Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 14, on a charge of obtaining board and lodging under false pretences.

He was released from Lethbridge jail on Dec. 5, and given a ticket to Coleman. Arriving on Dec. 8, he registered at the Grand Union, stating he had been recommended to stay there by Mr. Pay, manager of the Greyhound bus line, of Calgary.

He endeavored to secure printed forms and stationery next day at The Journal office, but on being asked to furnish a cash deposit, did not return for any further business. This did not deter him from masquerading as a man connected with big business, and from the hotel he carried on correspondence as "Electrical Surveyor," and created a favorable impression among the hotel people and with a few about town.

On Jan. 2 he hired Barringham's taxi to drive himself and his "staff" to Lethbridge, and registering the party at the Marquis, telephoned each Sunday morning for a lawyer. Later that morning he went to the lawyer's office, with his secretary, and papers were typed out for the transfer of land owned by a well-known business man here, for which it is reported the price was to be quite a large sum, of which his local confidential agent was to receive 10 per cent as commission. On the strength of this he had previously borrowed money from his agent, also a cash box in which to keep the "documents." This box was deposited with due impressiveness in the vault of the Marquis hotel.

A return trip to Coleman followed during Sunday afternoon, Jan. 3, and after a few hours he again left by taxi with the lawyer and secretary. The taxi driver was sworn to secrecy so that no details of the "Big Deal" should leak out. Reaching the Marquis late Sunday night, the party went to their respective rooms, on the understanding that they were to meet next morning and the details would be completed at the lawyer's office.

Instead of Mr. Rogers appearing, he was discovered to be "resting" at a private house somewhere in the outskirts of the city, where he had been given late the previous evening, by a taxi-driver, from whom he had borrowed $30, giving as security a bogus cheque, as alleged by the driver. Oliver Barringham, Coleman taxi-driver, swore out a warrant for his arrest, and Rogers was remanded at Lethbridge on a vagrancy charge. On his appearance at Blairmore on Wednesday, it was revealed by the Alberta provincial police officers that he had served sentences in jails in penitentiaries in Alberta, British Columbia and Saskatchewan, on similar charges.

His personal effects consisted of the borrowed cash box, a leather brief case in which were many of the letters which he had dictated, but which had never been mailed, and two used shirts. The last glimpse of Rogers was seen when he was led to the cells to await conveyance to jail, whilst the police were sealing up the fake letters and documents in a large brown envelope to add to their archives and Rogers' criminal record.

And spending a month of easy living, and pleasant scenes and dreams of big business and wealth, on less than even a shoestring.

COLEMAN MIDGETS DEFEAT COLEMAN RINK-RATS 4 TO 3

Coleman Midgets defeated the Coleman Rink-Rats in a hard fought battle, in the Arena, Tuesday night, Jan. 12th, by a score of 4-3.

The game was fast and considering the age and size of the Midgets was neatly played. Roundhead opened the score for the Midgets on an assist from Glendinning. Immediately after the puck was centered Gentile scored for the Rink-Rats. For the rest of the period the teams battled on even terms.

In the first half of the second period Dickson scored for the Midgets. Soon after he netted another assisted by Roundhead. Ford scored for the Rink-Rats. For the rest of the period the teams battled on even terms.

In the last period the game was a trifle rough but none of the boys were penalized. With three minutes to go Ford scored for the Rats on an error on the part of the Midget net minder. The game ended with the score of 4 to 3 in favor of the Coleman Midgets. The teams lined up as follows:

Midgets: Sigatka; Dickson, Glendinning; Spevak, Roundhead, Trotz; Brennan, F. Fraser, D. Moore.
Rink-Rats: J. Rushton; C. Kushton, B. Gentile; Dunlop, Ford, Seila.

The donation of $50 listed in the last issue as given by a "Committee of Citizens" should have been given under the name of "Anonymous."

states Mrs. R. M. Dunlop, secretary of the local branch of the Red Cross Society.

The benefit whist drive and raffle for St. Joseph's has been postponed till Feb. 5. Ticket holders take note.
